Robinson Weighs Chances of G.O.P. Candidates in '36

"Organization of Discontented Elements in Progress," He Declares

ADDRESSES STATE

Senatorial Leader Speaks to Young Democrats at Arkadelphia

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—Senator Joe T. Robinson's speech to the Young Democratic rally of the Seventh Congressional district here Thursday night was as follows:

"The personality, background and principles of presidential candidates are always subjects of interest and concern. They are of particular importance, when national conventions are approaching.

"The parties sometimes do not choose as nominees their best known leaders, nor it is always the case that men of exceptional ability and broad experience are selected. Often aspirants whose efforts have been confined to comparatively small sections come quickly to the front and receive recognition and favor in preference to well known statesmen of national renown.

"Men like Webster, Calhoun and Bryan, enjoying great popularity because of oratorical ability, have contended in vain for the presidency only to be vanquished by rivals regarded in public opinion as inferior to them.

"From the beginning of the government the office of chief executive has been sought by ambitious politicians, and in numerous instances persons of mediocre stature have lifted their eyes toward the pinnacle of power.

"It is difficult to realize how rapid has been the growth and multiplication of presidential duties and responsibilities during the last quarter of a century.

"Mr. Cleveland answered all his mail with his own hand, and had few clerks or other executive assistants. The most obscure member of Congress now receives probably twice as much mail as went to the White House during President Cleveland's administration.

"The increase has been due to a number of causes, among them being the notable extension of federal activities to spheres until recently unoccupied by government.

"In addition, there has come amazing improvement in facilities for communication with the national capital. As many citizens of Arkansas visit Washington in a single day during Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration as came there in a month or more during the time of President Theodore Roosevelt.

"Unquestionably, better educational facilities and more general intelligence have been added to the president's task, as well as to those of other public officials.

"Great physical endurance is required to stand the strain incident to the presidential office. No president during my day has come through without impairment to his health. Nevertheless, the fame and power which are associated with the office invite the ambitious to dream of climbing to the lofty eminence on which a president of the United States will always stand in the imagination and conception of his fellow men.

Republican Candidates

"Every day I am asked by someone the question: Who probably will be the Republican nominee for president in the 1936 campaign? No one can answer with unquestionable reliability. Conditions affecting the question are constantly changing and some one new light thought of may be chosen to lead the opposition to President Roosevelt in the contest next year.

"In spite of the uncertainty associated with the question, I will say:

Senator Lewis Ill in Moscow

Grave trials were held for the life of U. S. Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, who, after an illness of several months, died in Moscow, when it became known that attending physicians were prepared to use an oxygen tent if his condition became worse. The illness developed from an attack of asthma suffered by the senator after his arrival in Moscow from Berlin.

Financial Success No Final Measure

Louis Pasteur and Robert
E. Lee True Men, Says
Dr. W. A. Smart

"America boasts that she has no aristocracy of birth, but to suppose that America is therefore one common level of human beings is a great mistake. We have the same rigid notions as Europe, as to what constitutes success—only our yardstick is different," Dr. W. A. Smart of Emory university, Atlanta, Ga., told Hope Rotary club Friday noon in Hotel Barlow.

Dr. Smart, appearing at daily conference meetings this week in First Methodist church, was introduced by the pastor, the Rev. Fred R. Harrison.

Attacking America's use of the financial yardstick in measuring success, Dr. Smart said:

"Some French publication held a straw vote to determine who was the greatest Frenchman of all time. The people did not vote for Napoleon. They voted for Louis Pasteur, great medical chemist whose inoculation discoveries helped protect men against the ravages of disease.

"Was Robert E. Lee a success? Not by the financial yardstick. Men tried their best to make Lee a success. New York and London offered him a mint of money for the use of his name in finance. But he turned all these offers down.

"Then someone offered Lee the presidency of a ruined little college at Lexington, Va. Lee, a General Lee, that I am hardly adequate for the task, but I shall try. And so he devoted the rest of his life to pouring his all into the souls of the sons of the men who had fought under him.

"Such leaders rise up to challenge common man's notion that success is merely a matter of getting hold of more things than we let go of."

U. K. Thatcher, federal oil division service executive, was another guest of the Rotarians.

43 Are Arrested in Gambling Raid

But Bookmakers Somehow
Elude Crusading Little Rock Policemen

LITTLE ROCK.—City and county law enforcement agencies joined Thursday in an attack on gambling, prevalence of which was conceded by the March term grand jury of Pulaski county and elimination of which was urged upon by Circuit Judge McGhee in his charge of the September term grand jury Monday.

Balls on practically every pool hall in Little Rock resulted in the arrest of 43 persons, including eight operators and managers. The latter were booked on charges of operating gambling houses and released on $200 bond each. The raid was conducted by 30 members of the police department under the direction of Chief of Police Trook. Chief of Detectives Martin and Lieutenants Hoffman and Adams.

Thursday's raids were a continuation of pool balls and did not reach bookmakers, whose operations come in for a major share of criticism from Judge McGhee. During recent weeks bookmakers have been arrested on charges of gaming, game fixing, swindling and pooled bets, and 1,435, which they forfeited by failing to appear in court.

Bobcats, Carrying 19 Players, Leave for Camden Game

Ramsey Out, But Stroud
and Spears May Play
Part of Contest

HOPE BAND LEAVES

Fans and Band Follow
Team Later in Day—Game
Called at 8 o'Clock

Their spirits not dampened by rainfall that has interfered with practice sessions the last two days, the Hope High School football team and coaches, Fay Hammons and Jimmy Jones left at 1 p. m. Friday for Camden where the Bobcats and the Panthers meet at 8 o'clock.

Nineteen players made the trip. It will be the second game of the season for both squads. Hope and Camden having been meeting annually for years and this game is one of the highlights of the early season schedule.

The 31-piece Hope Boys band left Friday afternoon, followed by several carloads of fans.

The Bobcats are in good condition with the exception of Ramsey, an end, and Stroud and Spears, halfbacks. Ramsey will not get into the game because of an injured leg. Stroud is suffering from a knee ailment and Spears may not see but little action because of tonsillitis.

Panthers in Good Shape
CAMDEN, Ark.—For the past week Coach Sam Coleman has been driving his cohorts hard. They have been drilled long and hard on a defense or Bobcat plays and in addition have been perfecting an offense for this game. Much stress has been placed on the running attack and the Panthers are clicking better than last week. They have been drilled on passes and a defense for them as well as the Bobcat smooth running attack.

However, the Bobcats may see some fancy passing themselves if the conditions are right. Coleman has given the locals a few forwards and if the need arises they will use them. The pass was used sparingly in the first game but whenever it was called the play usually worked. The same line up that started the Monroe game may get the call on the other hand several boys have showed up so well they may get into the game.

Officials will be Cole, referee; Crawford, umpire; and O'Daniels.

Approximately 200 Hope fans are expected to drive here for this game. The Hope band will accompany the team and a large roving section from the Bobcat school will be on hand.

Paragould Denied Electric Permit

Municipal Plant to Compete With Private Power
Refused by State

LITTLE ROCK.—The state Department of Public Utilities issued an order Thursday dismissing the application of the city of Paragould for a certificate of convenience and necessity to build a municipal power plant and distribution system.

A hearing was held on the question Wednesday, when lawyers for the Arkansas Utilities company which now is supplying the city with electric service, urged that the petition be dismissed or that action be deferred until after the Arkansas Supreme Court acts upon a case involving the right of the Utilities Commission to grant a permit in the case.

The Utilities company contended that the city had no right to question jurisdiction of the Utilities Commission, as it did in its application, and at the same time ask the commission to grant a certificate of convenience and necessity.

The city plans to build the plant with a PWA loan which will be secured by a bond issue voted by the electors of the city nearly two years ago. The PWA has approved tentatively a loan of $100,000 and a grant of $30,000. The city was enjoined by Federal District Court from building a plant in competition with the company now serving the city, but the United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed that decision and the Supreme Court of the United States declined to grant a writ of certiorari to review the case.

W. E. Bailey Buys an Interest With Keen

W. E. Bailey, employee of Theo P. Witt in the shoe repair business here for the last 16 years, has bought a half interest with C. W. Keen, it was announced Friday.

The new shoe repair firm, Keen & Bailey, is located at 305 West First street. They are equipped to do all kinds of shoe repair work.

Rural Light Lines to Be Speeded Up

Farm Bureau Is to Assist in Organizing Farmers'
Co-operatives

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A push to get work started on rural electric lines before frost was started Thursday by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

In co-operation with the Rural Electrification Administration, a committee set up for that purpose called on all state representatives of the federation to get behind feasible methods of promoting the extension of rural service.

Announcement of the call came at about the same time that Francis R. McNinch, chairman of the Federal Farm Bureau Commission, was saying that agency would "invite and expect" the cooperation of the power industry in administering the utilities holding company act.

The Farm Bureau Federation Committee was said to be devoting special attention to factoring electric service co-operatives through which organized groups of farmers may build and operate their own power and light lines.

Food Prices 15% Up From 2 Years Ago, But Under '30

Meat Prices Lead Advance, and Pork Leads the Meat List

LAMB RISES LITTLE

But Bacon and Pork Chops
Even 5 Years Ago

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Lamb seems to have remained the good little child of the meat family, considered from the viewpoint of the housewife who watches the budget closely.

Fries for lamb still are farther below the 1930 prices than any of the other meats, although they are up from a year ago.

Pork chops and sliced bacon, on the other hand, not only have equalled their 1930 prices, but passed them.

Food prices generally, during the two weeks ending August 27, increased six-tenths of one per cent. They are 14.9 per cent higher than the same month two years ago, the bureau of labor statistics finds, but they are still 14.4 per cent below the level of five years ago.

Some Items Drop
The most marked increases the last year, says the bureau, came in the prices of eggs, meats, fats and oils. At the same time the prices were slipping downward for cereals, dairy products, fruits and vegetables.

Housewives are afforded a guide to economical buying by the index issued by the bureau. They show that all meats are higher priced than they were a year ago, but that some prices have increased much less than others.

Bacon Leads Meats
Prices for August 27 of this year had advanced the following percentages over previous years:

	More than 100%	More than 50%	More than 25%	Aug.	Aug.	Aug.
MEAT
Chuck roast	35.3	31.3	—	1934	1933	1929
Plate beef	46.8	60	—
Rib roast	29.7	42	—
Round steak	24.2	35.6	—
Trioin steak	20.7	35.9	—
Hens	8	42.4	—14.5
Leg of lamb	18.8	18.2	—19
Sliced bacon	42.7	94.9	pl. 9.0
Sliced ham	28.2	59.5	—0.9
Pork chops	21.5	86.3	pl. 7.6
Canned red salmon	6.1	11.8	—30.4

There were only five foods tabulated by the bureau which cost more on August 27 than they did the same month five years ago. They were wheat flour, sliced bacon, pork chops, canned peas, and pure lard.

Flour was 1.1 per cent higher; sliced bacon, 6 per cent higher; pork chops, 7.6 per cent higher; canned peas, 5.6 per cent higher, and pure lard 32.1 per cent higher.

Oranges, of all the foods, is the lowest priced when compared with five years ago, and lard the highest. Navy beans and white potatoes have remained almost as far behind the price advance as oranges.

Anti-Long Group to Get Together

Scarborough Withdraws and Will Support Cleveland Dear for Governor

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—Politicians of both the faction left by the late Huey P. Long and the anti-Long state conferred secretly here Thursday behind closed doors on tickets and support for the January 21 statewide Democratic primary.

One announced candidate, Truett L. Scarborough, the first to declare his intentions, withdrew from the race in the interest of Cleveland Dear, Eighth District congressman and leader in the statewide movement for repeal of the Long "dictatorship."

Dear was in New Orleans conferring with state anti-Long leaders, among them Representative J. Y. Sanders Jr. of the Sixth District, who defeated Long's candidate to take his seat at Washington.

They indicated that several days would elapse before the full Dear ticket is announced.

Another development was a late day conference scheduled between New Orleans Old Regular Democratic leaders and Gov. O. K. Allen when demand of the New Orleans faction for return of local self government to the city was anti-Long leaders, among them Representative J. Y. Sanders Jr. of the Sixth District, who defeated Long's candidate to take his seat at Washington.

The Rev. Oscar Gibson announced as the subject for Friday night of the most interesting in the Bible, "Judgment Before the Great White Throne." Thursday night he brought a message on "The Battle of Armageddon."

There is a large attendance each night at these services and good interest is being manifested. There have been a large number of conversions.

Housing Shortage Severest in Hope

This City Tops State,
Along With Arkadela-
phia and El Dorado

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Federal Housing Director Hal Norwood said Friday that a report of 92.3 per cent occupancy of the habitable houses in Arkansas, made by the Home Loan Bank was a conservative estimate.

Norwood said the housing shortage in cities included the communities of Arkadelphia, Hope and El Dorado.

Italy Agrees to Wait Two Weeks

"But Our Patience Can't Last Forever," Spokesman Warns League

ROME, Italy.—(AP)—An Italian government spokesman said Friday that Italy is willing to observe a two-weeks "unofficial truce" with Ethiopia "unless something happens."

The spokesman observed that the rains had ceased in Ethiopia and the ground would soon be dry enough for the movement of troops.

He said that unless something happens Italy will wait for the League of Nations council to bring in its report 10 days or two weeks hence, adding, "But our patience can not last forever."

Defeated Kentuckian Rebuffs Roosevelt's Peace Overtures

Ominous Break for Democrats in Dissension-Riddled Blue Grass State—Rhea Angrily Spurns President as Latter Starts West

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Roosevelt's gesture toward reconciling the factional differences among Kentucky Democrats on the eve of the state gubernatorial election met a setback Friday. Thomas S. Rhea, of Russellville, defeated by Lieutenant Governor A. B. Chandler for the nomination as governor in the Democratic runoff, declined to meet the president aboard his special train at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Rhea made a sharply-worded reply to the invitation.

By PYRON PRICE Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

President Roosevelt's western trip brings the campaign of 1936 into full stride, long before its time. Whatever the President's intentions, however sincere may be the protestations of Democratic leaders that the swing around the circle is "non-political," practical politics concerns itself with results, rather than intent.

When the Rev. Mr. Burchard made his celebrated remark about "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" at a Republican rally in 1884, he doubtless meant to aid the candidacy of James G. Blaine, the result, as widely recognized, was to make certain the election of Grover Cleveland.

Some of the effects of Mr. Roosevelt's journey into the west are obvious beforehand. He is the leader of his party. He is supposed universally to be a candidate for reelection. His trip comes at a time when both parties are actively preparing for the campaign, and takes him through a part of the country recognized generally as the chief battleground of 1936 politics.

It would not be in human nature for him to fail to take the opportunity to defend his acts and policies, or for the opposition not to besmirch itself in response.

Out Among the People

With respect to these inevitable results, it is not highly important that the President has rejected proposals for an extensive speaking campaign.

In these days a President has plenty of ways to reach the public ear without personally addressing audiences assembled at fixed points.

The central fact is that for the first time in months—for the first time since bitter criticism of him came

The Republicans count on the east as their nestegg, and will call on the west to provide the additional strength needed as a majority. The Democrats regard the south as a Democratic nest-egg, and will try in the west to get what more is required.

Thus it is over a territory already criss-crossed by preliminary entrenchments that Mr. Roosevelt has chosen to travel. That fact focuses public notice very intently on everything he says and does there.

Cotton Crop Only One-Fifth Ginned

1,261 Bales as of September 16 This Year, Against
6,256 Last Year

Further evidence that this year's cotton crop is being harvested a month late was furnished Friday when W. H. Etter, Jr., reported ginning in mid-September to be approximately one-fifth the total at the same date last year.

Mr. Etter, special agent for the Bureau of the Census, reported that 1,261 bales ginned prior to September 15 this year, as compared with 6,256 bales to the same date last year.

Charles Wilson, of Columbus, told The Star late Thursday that in his community about 150 bales had been ginned out of an expected total supply of 800 bales—showing clearance of only a fifth of the crop so far.

Gasoline Tax Hits an All-Time Peak

$789,769 in September
Greatest Single Month's Collection Ever

LITTLE ROCK.—Gasoline tax collections for September reached an all-time high for a single month, State Revenue Commissioner Earl R. Wiseman said Thursday when deposits in the unappropriated fund in the treasurer's office reached $789,769.60.

The previous high mark was $768,122.37 collected last month.

Deposits totalled $5,315.32 and it was said that several additional small deposits will be made before the end of the month. Mr. Wiseman said there is a possibility that collections will reach $800,000 by Monday.

Bill Lee Hurls Chicago to Pennant, Allowing
But Six Hits

20 WINS IN ROW

Chicago's Streak Continues as Overworked Dean
Gives Up 15 Hits

ST. LOUIS.—The Chicago Cubs won the National league pennant Friday afternoon, beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2, in the first game of a double-header.

The victory was the 20th straight for the Cubs.

Chicago pounded Dizzy Dean, one of baseball's greatest pitchers, for 15 hits, including a home run by Stanley Hack in the eighth inning.

Bill Lee, right-handed hurler for the Cubs, held the Cards to six hits.

Freddie Landstrom led the Chicago attack with four hits out of four times at bat. Hack, who crashed out a home run over the right field fence with no one aboard in the eighth, got three hits out of four.

The Cardinals made three errors behind the pitching of Dean, who with the aid of his younger brother, Paul, has carried the burden of the St. Louis hurling staff all season. Durocher, shortstop, made two errors. DeLancey, Card catcher, made the other error.

A Doubleheader

ST. LOUIS.—(AP)—Rains washed out Charlie Grimm's plans to clinch the National League pennant Thursday and gave the four down and four to go St. Louis Cardinals a rest for a final double-header rally Friday.

The final hopes of the fading world's champions will be the Dean brothers in Friday's twin bill, starting at 12:45 p. m. Given four days of rest, Dizzy will fire all he's got in an attempt to snap the Cub 19-game streak in the opener. If he succeeds, Paul, at his own request, will pitch the second. Should the great Dizzy fail, it will be all over.

Bill Lee, big right-hander whom the Cubs purchased from the Cardinal farm at Columbus two years ago for $35,000, will oppose Dizzy. Following Lee will be the veteran Charlie Root, whose revived right arm has been the one big reason for the sensational pennant drive of the Grimm men.

County Council of Clubs in Session

Ozan-St. Paul Home Dem-

on Wednesday

The Hempstead County Council of home demonstration clubs met at the Methodist church in Ozan, Wednesday with Ozan-St. Paul club as hostess. The meeting opened at 10 o'clock, with Mrs. C. R. White of Columbus, president of the council, presiding. The meeting was opened by singing "Star Spangled Banner," with Mrs. Wilbur Jones at the piano.

Mrs. Charles Irvin welcomed the council to Ozan in behalf of the Ozan-St. Paul club. The response was given by Miss LeVeta England of the Shover Springs club. Mrs. Frank Miles of Hope gave a very inspiring devotion on Neighbors, after which Mrs. D. E. Goodlett gave a vocal solo entitled, "When I Grow Too Old to Dream."

Miss Faye Samuel of DeAnn, gave a report of the camp life at Camp Pike, and also the dress contest in which she was entered. Mrs. B. M. Jones gave an outline of Dr. Carolyn Hedman's talks at Camp. Mrs. D. E. Goodlett gave a report of the council meeting that was held at Camp. Miss Elizabeth Hanna then gave a reading entitled, "The House by the Side of the Road."

Every phase of camp life at Camp Pike was brought to the 110 women at the council meeting, so most of the day was spent in showing what an opportunity the women of Hempstead county are missing when they do not attend the Home Demonstration Club Camp that is held at Camp Pike every year. Mrs. O. A. McKnight gave an interesting talk on camp meals, how, when and why the women at camp, Miss Laura Lee Duckett gave a report of the type of pictures that were shown to the women at camp. And to show the women that it was not all work and no play at camp, Mrs. Dayton Boyce gave a talk on the winning pool, what hints it was opened and the water carnival that was held while they were there.

YOUR HEALTH

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

This is the last of three articles in which Dr. Fishbein reviews the progress of medicine in the last quarter century.

Women Gain Security in Last 25 Years

Women, and mothers especially, may think medical science for the greater security it has brought them in the last 25 years, especially when it comes to childbirth and diseases that affect women.

The remarkable progress in this field of medicine was pointed out recently by Dr. John S. Fairbanks, president of the British College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. Most pronounced of all, Dr. Fairbanks believes, is that concerned with the care given mothers before the birth of their babies.

In 1910 little more than a beginning had been made in this aspect of medical work. Since then, however, steady progress has continued, and today every woman who has intelligence enough to get in touch with a doctor as soon as she knows she is going to have a child can get all the attention necessary to avoid the dangers that come with uncontrolled progress of this function.

True, scientific medicine has not yet solved the cause of eclampsia—that form of poisoning of the system which gives her convulsions—but much has been learned about the nature of the changes that take place in the body under these conditions, and there are methods of treatment which are life-saving.

In overcoming infection of women during childbirth, the methods of the surgical operating room have been introduced into the process of care of the mother, and many cases of infection are thus avoided.

In the care of women, specialists have learned to recognize the importance of treating injuries as soon as possible, to prevent secondary irritations which frequently result in cancer.

Certain forms of cancer affecting the organs of women are known to be especially amenable to treatment if they are caught early.

Probably one of the most significant features of medical advancement has been the application of a system of health education to all the people through newspapers, periodicals, lectures, radio talks, and similar methods. As a result, more and more people realize the importance of regular examinations, particularly after middle age, to detect dangerous conditions at the earliest possible moment.

Of course, all discoveries made in the field of diagnosis by study of the blood and by use of the X-ray have been applied to the care of women.

Moreover, much has been learned about relationship of glands of internal secretion to the process of childbirth, and out of that has come one of the most interesting developments—the possibility by means of glandular studies to determine at a very early time whether a woman is going to have a child.

Depicts the Indian as He Really Was

Everybody knows all about the American Indian. He lived in a tepee, took scalps, wore trailing feather head-dresses, worshiped Gitchi Manitou, the mighty, and was a tall, lean, hawk-nosed individual who talked little, never laughed, and endured pain without a whimper.

That's the sort of knowledge we all have about the original Americans—and most of it is wrong.

"Our Indians," by A. Hyatt Verrill, is a very interesting book which attempts to correct some of our misapprehensions. Mr. Verrill reveals that many Indians including some of the most famous tribes, never built up at all, but lived in solid permanent houses.

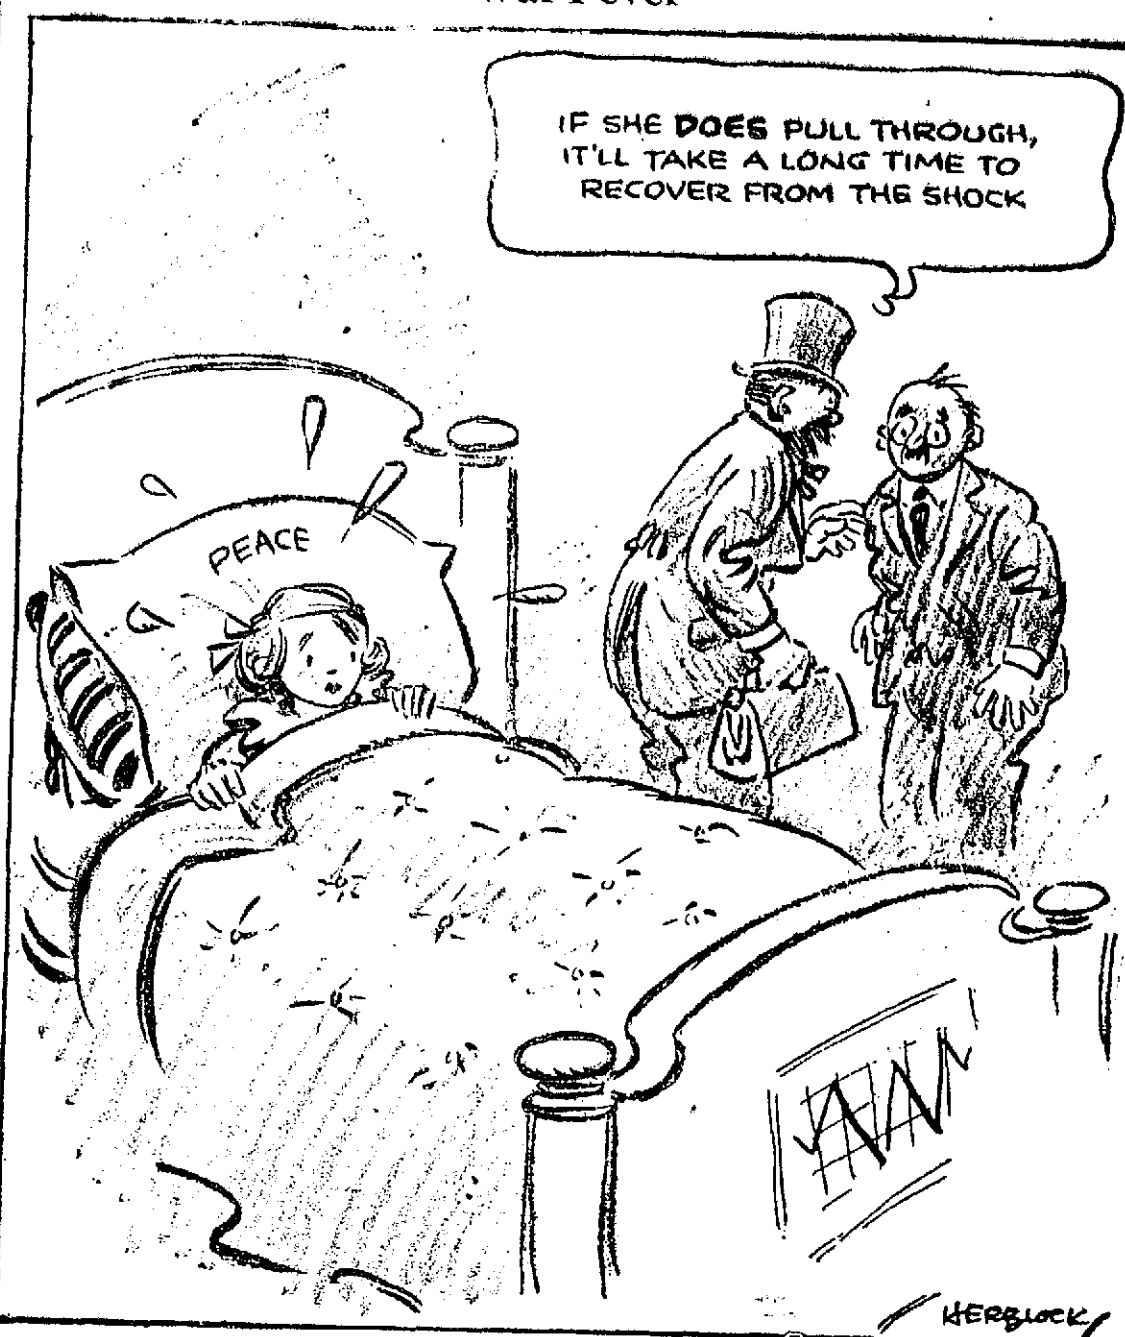

That a majority of the tribes did not live in wigwags until they got the idea from the white man.

The BLUE DOOR

by Rachel Mack © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY. RUTH WOODSON, a pretty, blue-eyed girl of 19, in search of work, seeks refuge from a storm in an old stone house with a blue door in the little town of Northville.

The teacher who had been on the job for fifteen years sighed and looked out at the windy day; the sun sparkled on rippling leaves and there was something salty in the air, even in this inland town. "I often go by the way I feel," she said. "Today I don't feel like work, so I won't give a tap of home work to the children."

"But you can't do that," protested the N. T. "You'll get behind."

"Yes, I'll get behind, but not much. It won't be much worse than wrangling half of tomorrow morning about the slacker and seeing that they get it done somehow or other. Maybe, if it rains tomorrow, I'll give double. Anyway leave it to me, I'll catch up. I always have. But every now and then there comes a day or even a week when I go lightly. Nature usually fixes it up for me. I get along."

"I'd be afraid to do that," said the girl. "We're finding common denominators and the children need practice."

Right, But Unknewing. "You go right ahead, my dear, and do what your little conscience dictates. You are right, and I am wrong. And you know it better than you do, yet somehow, when you get the feel of teaching children, you will find that there are psychological moments. Some days the children will get three times as much work done as on other days. The very air smells of work. Did you see the moon last night?"

"Well, I didn't give any night work yesterday either."

The older teacher went to the door to marshal her incoming class; the other stood with a perplexed frown. She knew the woman outranked all the others in the building in the high grades she turned in. There must be more to teaching than she thought.

At recess she approached the principal. "Would it be all right if I didn't give any home work today?"

"Yes, indeed. And don't keep anyone in. Get your hat and go out and forget there is such a thing as school. You'll be sitting up plenty of nights making papers and so on."

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

When Skin Blemishes Appear

Last week the skin on my daughter's face broke out in strange, water-like blisters that stayed on for two days," writes a woman in Brooklyn.

"She didn't go to bed for hours and what with running back and forth through the house, telephoning the drug store and waiting, the entire family got very little sleep. The more she irritated her face with various preparations, the more the blemishes showed."

"Finally she had to see a doctor. Fortunately, nothing was seriously wrong and the blemishes disappeared as suddenly as they had appeared. If she'd been calm and had known what to do in the beginning, they probably would have been gone in the morning. I do wish you'd write something about first aid treatments."

This mother has the right idea, of course. It certainly is difficult to be cool and calm when your face breaks out in a rash, but if you get all excited about the situation, rub on a dozen preparations and lose hours of sleep, you'll only make matters worse.

If you notice spots or rash on your face, remove all makeup immediately, wash with soap and water, rise carefully and go to sleep for at least eight hours. If your digestive organs haven't been functioning properly, a laxative may be indicated. If the blemishes are no better in the morning, see your doctor at once.

Remember, of course, that cosmetics shouldn't be used to cover blemishes that look at all serious. You may want to hide them, but it's better to allow them to show for a couple of days than to run the risk of irritation.

To keep skin smooth, don't forget to drink eight glasses of water each day, get eight hours sleep a night, eat sensibly and make sure that your digestive system is doing the work it is supposed to do.

NEXT: Then and now.

THE NEW DEAL, IN WASHINGTON

Willis Thornton, NEA Service staff correspondent, is pinch hitting for Rodney Dutcher, NEA Washington correspondent, during Dutcher's vacation.

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The government's campaign to sell "baby bonds" to the average citizen is going to get a lift this fall. Plans are under way for a fairly intensive campaign throughout the country. It calls for posters and an advertising campaign, and one treasury official is already out "peppering" local postmasters in god-sized lies.

Total of these "baby bonds" already sold, some $132,000,000 worth to date, means nothing in a national debt of billions, but it does mean something a couple of other ways, especially it could be multiplied by ten. First, all war-time Liberty Bonds have been called, there is now no government bond issue widely held among the masses of the people. War campaigns taught the people the advantages of government bonds for the first time in American history and millions of "little fellows" had government obligations in small denominations.

That's regarded as a stable factor in government, as France has found. Most every peasant there has a government bond tucked away in his sock. Such do not "revolute."

Many government officials would feel better if a couple of million more people here had just such a direct interest in their government, as they did during and just after the World war.

Second, the "baby bonds," bought with regularity, offer a chance for people whose middle-sized incomes exclude them from the provisions of the security program to create their own annuities and make their own security.

And, third, they tend to relieve by just so much as can be accomplished the condition of banks which for months have been gorged with government bonds.

More Honor for Teddy

The capital is to have a memorial to Roosevelt at last—Theodore Roosevelt, that is. The long-considered project to make a park of Annapolis Island is under way, with an associated CCC crew in charge. They've found no end of Indian relics in digging about the island, which had plenty of historic connections before the Lincoln Memorial bridge was built right beside it. A dashing equestrian statue of Teddy with Custer and Black Hawk will feature it eventually.

Bucmerging for League

The Liberty League went a little too far, Washington consensus goes, when it released a lawyer's committee denouncing the Wagner act as definitely unconstitutional. It can't be considered as anything but an effort to influence the Supreme Court, say most observers, and as such is likely to bounce back.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau chose carefully in going for his vacation to Portugal. Nobody is going to charge him with secretly planning stabilization of the escudo.

One unexpected result of the increased income tax bill is said to be a rush of contributions to the Republican National Committee's coffers.

The Buckefolers are said to be kicking in again, rather liberally, but the Democratic committee is worse off than ever, with a debt rapidly climbing toward $300,000.

Senator Joseph Guffey, of coal bill fame, thinks one good reason for applying the oxygen to the soft coal industry is that we'll need it again soon, as our oil resources will give out much sooner than expected.

Tell Long for "Thank You"

Employers of WPA and PWA bureaus put in one of the biggest stretches of overtime known to the government service as the deadline approached for filing applications for allotment of money from the new works fund to end relief. Both were open almost 24 hours a day, with employees voluntarily on the job for as long as 40 and 48 hours straight. They rated a nice little "thank you" memo from Secretary Ickes.

It has been estimated that 103,000,000 trees were planted in the United States during 1934.

Galow Burns, and Man's Body

Believed W. A. Brady, Jr., of Famed Theatrical Family

ITS NECK, N. J. — (AP) — The body of a man found in the wrecked ruins of a summer bungalow, believed identified Friday as William A. Brady, Jr., 35, scion of the famous "first family."

Detective Chief Charles Tate said the circumstances removed any doubt as to the identity. The cottage, which burned Thursday, was owned by Miss Elsie Chisholm, associated with Brady in a summer stock company. Brady had obtained permission to spend the night there.

Coal Strike Ends as of October 1

But Agreement Fails to Satisfy Tennessee Mine Operators

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A peace pact to end the nation's soft coal strike in all but four producing districts was reached Friday. The miners will go back to work next Tuesday after being out since last Monday. Union leaders and operators agreed upon a new wage contract giving the miners increases in pay in virtually all types of work.

To Return October 1

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An agreement to end the nation-wide soft coal strike next Tuesday, October 1, was reached Thursday night between producers and miners, and union spokesmen announced their men would go back to work on that date.

The agreement, providing for various wage increases, was reached by the Appalachian Wage Committee after four days of almost constant negotiation. The new contract is to extend 18 months, until April 1, 1937.

It still had to be approved by the full Joint Wage Conference and a controversy between operators over wage differentials was one bar to the writing of the new contract. Some spokesmen asserted, however, that this would not block the ending of the strike.

Efforts on the part of the union failed to remove a differential dispute between Tennessee and other Southern producers.

The Tennessee operators demanded a 20-cent differential for day men under the base scale for the rest of the Southern Appalachian region. Lee Gunther, their representative, said he would not sign a new wage and hour contract without that differential.

Reports from the field indicated that the strike to date was of a peaceful character. The union claimed that only a few mines in Illinois and Kentucky were working.

Fowler talked on the modern kitchen as seen at Camp Pike. Mrs. O. A. McKnight then gave a reading entitled "Mussa Charley's Mule." Lunch was then served cafeteria style in the church.

After lunch the meeting was opened by singing "America the Beautiful." Mrs. Wilbur Jones gave a report of the scrap book contest that was held at Camp Pike. A vocal duet was given by Mrs. Charles Locke and Mrs. D. E. Goodlett, and a piano duet by Misses Frances and Nancy Gist, after which the business meeting of the council was held. Mrs. C. R. White, president and Mrs. J. E. McWilliams, secretary, presiding. Mrs. McWilliams thanked Ozan community for the use of the church, and Mrs. Lee Garland of the Allen club thanked the Ozan-St. Paul club members for the wonderful day that was spent with them, and invited the council to meet with the Allen and Hopewell clubs at Hope in December.

has an about 100,000 up the panorama who are prominent in the public eye as the prospective nominee of the Republican party. There is nothing at this time to indicate a likelihood that any third party, by whomsoever it may be led, will play a controlling part. Efforts will be made to place minor tickets in the field in the hope that these tickets may so reduce the strength of the Democratic candidates as to cause the loss to him of the electoral vote in certain states; but as heretofore, the indications are that the real issue will be between the candidates of the two well established parties, namely: The Democratic and the Republican parties.

"One of the chief difficulties in choosing a candidate is found in the fact that there are, distinct emphatic divisions among the members of the Republican party in various sections of the country, touching principles and policies.

"Senator William E. Borah is generally popular because of his attractive personality and his ability as a speaker. He would be acceptable to Republicans in the West and to many in the Middle West and the South but in some Northern states and in many of the Eastern states his party associates shy from his leadership as they do from that of any other liberal or progressive. Borah, however, has always voted regularly. It is not recalled that he ever voted for a progressive or for a Democrat. His missed his opportunity to be president when he refused to accept the nomination on the ticket with Mr. Harding. Had he been vice president at the time of Mr. Harding's death, Mr. Borah would of course, have succeeded him in the presidency.

"The same may be said of Senator Johnson of California who for many years has established his right to recognition as a leader in independent political thought and action. In all probability, Johnson is regarded by the masses of the Republican party as more reliable and acceptable than Borah.

"He too did not approve of Mr. Harding's choice and like Borah aspired to the chief place. In his refusal of the vice presidency when Harding was chosen, probably he missed his only real opportunity to become chief executive.

Senator Vandenberg

"The senator from Michigan, Mr. Vandenberg, prominently mentioned, possesses a wealth of information on public questions. He is quiet and careful in speech and probably has as good a chance as any one for the Republican nomination. That he is not too proud to stoop to conquer is illustrated by the fact that in 1934 when early in his campaign he assailed the Roosevelt administration and state-wide unfavorable reaction followed. Mr. Vandenberg quickly changed and endorsed President Roosevelt's policies and thus won a victory which many said he was about to lose. After his return to the Senate he busied himself in criticizing the major Roosevelt policies in support of which he had gained the favor of his constituents. His criticisms usually are well tempered and resourceful. Unless something arises to divert the current from him he may win the nomination.

"Senator Dickinson of Iowa, at the beginning of the last session of the congress, seemed to be the choice of the regular old 'standpat' element among the Republicans.

"He is so conservative that his efforts to be liberal or progressive, frequently made in public addresses, rather detract from his availability as a party nominee. No progressive regards Senator Dickinson as anything else than an implacable unyielding conservative—a conservative by disposition, training and habit.

"La Follette of Wisconsin is brilliant, logical and forceful in debate. He is courageous and studiously progressive. The tendency of all men in authority is toward conservatism. 'Bob' resists his tendency continuously from the standpoint of policy and from a reverent regard for his father, the elder La Follette, who was the original national progressive Republican leader. It is doubtful if he would accept a nomination on a third ticket and there is no probability of his being tendered the regular nomination.

"Senator Norris of Nebraska possesses a progressive mind and nature. He is not in accord with the party leadership. In the two last campaigns he supported the Democratic candidates. The name of Norris is associated with important legislation. His ambition has diminished with advancing years.

"Governor Landon of Kansas enjoys a measure of strength and is believed to be growing in favor with his party as winter, principally for the reason that he was elected governor of Kansas when the Democratic party was carrying that section for other officers by large majorities. While not well known, nationally, he has demonstrated executive ability and may increase in strength between now and the convention.

"Whoever is chosen on the Republican ticket must accomplish a political revolution in order to win.

Denies Constitution Issue

"Organization of discontented elements are in progress and it is a concerted effort on the part of the opposition leadership to discredit and break down the popularity of President Roosevelt. It was openly announced sometime ago that no chance exists for success unless this can be accomplished. This discontented elements and the Republican forces cannot be united in support of any regular Republican candidate. His policies must be reactionary in order to gain the support of big business and of the other influence which resist aggressively the reforms and measures constituting the New Deal. Roosevelt and Garner are certain to receive the Democratic nomination. It is inconceivable that the Liberty League and the self-styled Constitutional Democrats can effectively oppose them.

"Roosevelt and Garner are not opposed to the constitution and do not seek to destroy or undermine it. Seventy per cent of the laws held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States have been enacted during Republican administration. While certain provisions of the NRA have been invalidated by the court, the popularity of the fundamental features of the act is attested by the fact that both industry and labor avow intention to observe the important arrangements for the suppression of unfair competition in industry and for the maintenance of just and reasonable wages and hours in the labor system of the nation.

"It must be borne in mind that many decisions of the Supreme Court rest upon a bare majority opinion and in some instances it would have resulted in sustaining the acts had the personnel of the court been different.

"The legislative, the executive and the judicial departments of the government are co-ordinate and in theory are of equal rank. Still the Supreme Court from the days of John Marshall has passed on the constitutionality of laws enacted by the congress.

"The power in the Supreme Court to hold an act of congress unconstitutional is implied from that provision in the organic law which declares:

"This constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the Supreme Court of the land, etc.

"The constitutionality of every measure of importance, marking a distinct change in governmental policy has been attacked and there is no way, in a doubtful case to determine the validity of a law assailed until the highest court has rendered its decision.

U. S. May Get Air Control in Pacific

British May Co-Operate, Holding Onto Eastern Seaway Links

SLDNEY, N. S. W. — (AP) — New air-line developments in the Pacific through Anglo-American co-operation were envisioned Wednesday.

Harold Gatty, former flying captain of the late Wiley Post, told the New Zealand government that Pan-American Airways of the United States were preparing to establish a regular Honolulu-to-Auckland service by way of Kingman Reef and Pago Pago, providing a satisfactory basis for operation could be reached with New Zealand.

Wednesday the British Pacific Trust.

The various measures sponsored by the present administration have been attacked in the courts as violating the constitution are intended to promote the welfare of the masses. That they have accomplished this result is evidenced by the great improvement that has taken place since their initiation.

"The country is well on its way toward complete recovery. There is little disposition among the people to turn back to that blind leadership which prior to March 1933 involved every interest, which the American people hold dear in adversity."

with which Lord Sempill, British aviation authority, is associated, announced it was prepared to invest £1,000,000 in development of Australia-New Zealand airlines. This amount includes $100,000 to back Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith in establishment of a new Australia-New Zealand air service which, it was understood, might link with Pan-American Airways.

Kingsford-Smith was understood to be due in London from the United States for negotiations. It was said on good authority that British interests might be prepared to leave airlines in the Pacific to American enterprise provided the British can control the route to New Zealand by way of Europe, Asia and Australia.

These developments follow the Australian prime minister's announcement replying to the Peninsular & Oriental chairman's declaration that the Union Steamship Company would abandon the Pacific unless the British empire governments drastically checked American subsidized shipping lines.

The prime minister suggested that Australia and New Zealand preferred a friendly conference with the Matson Line and American interests on the subject and the conference is to be held in London.

"I've discovered Calumet's big, new 10¢ can!"

"No more 'by-guess-and-by-golly' baking in this house now!"

says Mrs. Owen H. Fleming, 1235 Judson Ave., Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. Fleming was one of the first women to get the big, new 10¢ can of Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder.

"No need for any woman to take chances with her baking now," she says. "That new 10¢ can of Calumet certainly means that the very best can be bought at a bargain."

Ask your grocer to show you the new, bigger 10¢ Calumet can!

A SIMPLE TWIST... and the Easy-Off top lifts off. No spilling, no broken finger-nails!

WHY DOES CALUMET give such astonishing "baking luck"? Why is Calumet different from other baking powders? Because Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the rising loaf. A slower one for the oven . . . And Calumet's famous double-action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening—every time.

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history. The Full-Pound Can now sells regularly for only 25¢. And if you want a smaller size—get the big, new 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder.

Cubs Consistently Strong at Plate

No "Murders" Row," But the Men of Grimm Have Batting Power

By DICK STROBEL
Associated Press correspondent

CHICAGO—(AP)—Seek as you might, you'll find no proverbial "murders" row" on the roster of the Chicago Cubs.

You'll run across a number of fellows whacking the ball around for better than 300 averages and you'll even discover that the aging Gabby Hartnett is among the National League's leading hitters.

But that doesn't begin to tell the story of the Cubs' astonishing newly found power at the plate which hoisted them to the crest of baseball's "murders" row in the closing weeks of the pennant fight.

Deadly consistency and timeliness provide some clues to the team's sensational spurt. Cold statistics don't disclose the other major factor—spirit.

The "Carefree" Cubs. Never has Chicago known such a carefree bunch of ball players, who, to all appearances, would rather play the game for the sheer fun of it than for the gold and glory of victory.

They come to bat with a smiling, swaggering confidence and blast out hits so audaciously that rival pitchers are left shaking in their shoes.

Witness the long winning streak that was climaxed by their ascension to the league leadership. Rosy-cheeked Gabby Hartnett, in 16 games, compiled an unbelievable average of .422. Frank Demaree, during the same stretch hit .403. Four others were well over .300.

But Work Is Best

Thus, it goes without saying that the Cubs are well supplied with offensive weapons. The team as a whole tops the National League in the batting department, with an average of .290. Alvin Galen, Stan Hack and Billy Herman have averages nearly as good as Demaree's and Hartnett's.

Almost as indicative of the team's strength is the performance on the field. The Cubs handle the ball with a cool, deliberate nonchalance. Sloppy plays are as rare as a burlesque queen's blush. In Billy Herman at second base and Bill Jurges at short, the Cubs possess one of the finest defensive combinations in the game. They lead the league in double plays, and with Phil Cavaretta at first and Stan Hack at third, comprise a youthful, alert, sparkling infield which Manager Charley Grimm calls the best in the business.

His powerful right arm still as sure as ever, Hartnett adds the necessary ingredients toward making this an airtight combination from his position behind the plate. Few there are who laud him with an attempted steal, and fewer are they who succeed in perpetrating such a travesty on his reputation.

A Young Outfield In the outfield, the Cubs' three young ball hawks, Galen, Lindstrom, and Demaree, are not infallible as judges of fly balls, but the occasion is rare when one slips past them.

If the team has any weaknesses, Grimm won't admit them. Nineteen-year-old Phil Cavaretta, the Chicago boy who took over Grimm's job at first, lacks experience and isn't too proficient at the plate. Galen likewise requires seasoning, although he has done an unusually efficient job in his first year as an outfielder.

Jurges is a poor hitter. The rest of the team, despite the youth of some of its members, has had plenty of training in the big time. Sure of itself, confident of its own ability and fearing no one, it appears as an outfit capable of scaling all the heights baseball has to offer.

Prescott Singing Convention Oct. 6-7
Southwest Arkansas Group to Meet There Saturday and Sunday

In view of the higher prices for beef cattle forecast in the beef cattle outlook recently published by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Arkansas cattlemen should not allow any of their fat stock now on grass to lose in flesh on account of short pasture, declares M. W. Muldrow, Extension, animal husbandman, University College of Agriculture.

Anything that is now fat and on grass should either be marketed or a special effort should be made to put them on new pasture where gains will be continued, or else short pastures should be supplemented with cottonseed cake, declares Mr. Muldrow.

The beef cattle outlook of the bureau is of interest to cattlemen who will have fat cattle to market before fall and who will have high quality feeder and stocker steers to market between now and January 1. An extract from the report follows:

"With current prices of cattle considerably higher than a year ago and slaughter supplies for the next five months indicated to be somewhat less than in the corresponding period of 1934, prices during the remainder of 1935 are expected to average materially higher than a year earlier. Some advance in the prices of the better grades of slaughter cattle from the level prevailing in late July is likely to occur before the usual seasonal decline gets underway in the late fall or early winter. Prices of the lower grades of slaughter cattle also may advance somewhat, especially if a strong demand for cattle for feeding and reworking should develop.

In line with current prices of slaughter cattle, the prices of stocker and feeder cattle this fall probably will average much higher than for any year since 1930. The combined cost of feeder cattle and of finishing them for market next winter and spring is likely to be the highest since the winter of 1930-31.

In view of the probable increase in the marketings of grain-fed cattle in the first half of 1935, prices of the better grades of slaughter cattle in that period are likely to average lower than in the corresponding period of this year, and the seasonal price movements in such grades will be more nearly normal than they were this year.

AAA Injunctions Thrown Out Here
Processing Tax Ordered Collected in Arkansas Test Cases

The Fair park arena wrestling program was postponed Thursday night when the principals in two scheduled bouts failed to show up.

Their failure to appear here was not fully explained. However, it is believed that rain delayed their trip to Hope from Little Rock.

At Little Rock, rain forced postponement of matches Thursday night for the second straight time.

Soon after the two matches were called off here, came the announcement that Donald Moore, co-promoter, had sold his rights to Bert Mauldin.

Mauldin will promote all future bouts, working in connection with Tony Bernardi, Little Rock matchmaker. Mr. Mauldin said that the arena would be moved from Fair Park to the old Hope Fertilizer company warehouse on East Second street.

In the future wrestling matches will be held on Monday or Tuesday nights, but no definite night has been set, Mauldin said.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Federal Judge Martineau dissolved Friday the temporary injunction against Homer Adkins, internal revenue collector, obtained by five companies which sued to test the constitutionality of the agricultural adjustment act (AAA).

The processing taxes involved were ordered collected without penalty pending a federal supreme court appeal.

In my opinion it is the beginning of a long and... one of the bloodiest and cruelest periods the world has ever known—Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog, South African premier, referring to the Holan-Ethiopian crisis.

It was announced in Hope Friday.

All singers and lovers of music are expected to attend, bringing songbooks and luncheon baskets. The convention is self-sustaining, according to Ernest G. Stead, president, and Miss Vivian Moore, secretary-treasurer.

The Southwest Arkansas Singing Convention will meet at Prescott Saturday and Sunday, October 6-7, it was announced in Hope Friday.
